Briefly describe the organization's mission:

their food sources and inspire better nutrition choices. We help schools establish food gardens and living science labs, we provide rersources and curriculum through community partnerships in agriculture, science, food education and nutrition. The organization supports 12 schools, K-12 on Maui and engages with over 4000 students each year. We work closely with teachers to integrate the school gardens with normal curriculum and required standards. For the 2016-17 fiscal year, we worked with the schools to ensure both the garden programs at each school and our organization were sustainable. We put in place a measurement program to encourage schools to gradually raise the amount of funds they contribute to the garden program; our baseline for 2015-16 school year was 11% with goals for year 1 to be 25%, year 2 and 3 to be 35%. We worked directly with the schools so that they can understand the impact of the school gardens different ways that the school can contribute and effective ways for schools to work with Grow Some Food for fundraising. At the end of our Fiscal year 2016 (end of school year 2016-17), schools were providing 35% of the overall funding for our 12 supported schools. In about half of our schools, 100% of the students participate in the garden program. Year end surveys demonstrate that garden classes have a significant impact on student's attitudes about the environment, positive impact on nutrition and significant support of science programs.We are serving 12 schools and over 4,000 students.
